A close-up photograph of molten glass being poured from a ladle into a mold. The glass is bright orange and yellow, glowing with heat. The background is dark, making the glowing glass stand out.

Get caught up in the heat of the moment! Hank Adams, glass artist and Creative Director of Wheaton Arts, will guide you through a sand casting experience. You will learn the basics of casting glass and making a sand mold. Our experienced glass artists will ladle molten, hot glass into your mold. Your piece will be ready in one week for you to take back to your classroom to show your students.
